Nature art is my way of expressing myself, telling stories through every stroke and hue.

Over the past six years, my journey with bonsai and nature art has been incredible. Some real gems show my best work among all the things I have created. I am passionate about making unique and special art that stands out.

I love creating landscapes and sculptures with rocks, stones, and other natural materials. Each piece I make is a tribute to the beauty of nature. I have learned that blending natural elements with creativity can make art that tells stories of balance and harmony in the world around us.

My art is not just about looking nice. It is an invitation for people to appreciate the beauty of nature. It is about showing how creativity can turn simple things into something beautiful.

Every artwork I create is my way of leaving behind a mark that shows my love for art and nature. It has been an exciting journey, and with every piece, I aim to inspire emotions and appreciation for nature's wonders.

I am committed to creating, inspiring, and using my creativity to blend nature's beauty with art.

Mountain Villa: Nestled in the Jungle

Imagine a majestic castle atop a mountain, nestled among lush trees—a haven on Earth. Picture a fountain with a river streaming in front of the castle. A bridge gracefully connects the mountains over the flowing waters. The dense greenery envelops the landscape. Even in the forest's depths, where mountains and rivers aren't always visible, a miniature bonsai landscape evokes the grandeur of mountains, castles, and fountains right before your eyes.

This miniature landscape bonsai features Premna microphylla and Fukein tea tree, with dragon rock sculpted into mountains. To enhance its appeal, lush green land moss was delicately added. All materials used are natural, except for a few decorative pieces.

Decade Mountain Tranquillity

passing decades, influencing its environment uniquely..

Rock-Slanted Beauty

Island Oasis: Tiny Coastal Havens

Imagine a serene scene inspired by Phi Phi Island: a clear blue ocean surrounds a peaceful island. Nearby, a smaller island with a lighthouse stands, and boats float gently by the shore. The whole place is wrapped in clear water, embraced by green bushes and mountains.

This unique bonsai landscape combines Premna microphylla with red lava rock, blending bonsai and epoxy art. It's made with hand-crafted concrete pots, painted using vibrant acrylic colors. Adding a charming touch, the lush green land moss completes the picture.

Timeless Elegance

THE AGED FICUS MICROCARPA

Canopy Crown: Atop Mountain Peaks

Picture a castle atop a mountain, accessible via a grand staircase winding its way up. Nestled amidst the hills, this castle is adorned by a magnificent tree canopy. Envision a serene scene under the full moon's glow, with a sprawling lake flowing at the mountain's base.

This special bonsai landscape blends Premna microphylla with a mix of black lava rock and local pumice. It's set in hand-crafted concrete pots and adorned with charming details like lush green moss, miniature stairs, and a bamboo bridge

Mountain Oasis

Ficus Microcarpa & Fukien Tea Bonsai
Amidst Fountain-Infused Greenery

In the Mountain Oasis, a castle looms atop the peak, carved from the mountainside. A cascading fountain beside it tumbles over the hill, surrounded by a sprawling Ficus Microcarpa tree, a lush green canopy over the land. It's a dramatic scene, where nature's greenery dominates every corner.

This grand landscape bonsai combines Premna microphylla and Fukein tea trees with Dragon rock, black lava rock, and local pumice. Nestled in hand-crafted concrete pots, it's enriched with delightful features like lush green moss and miniature stairs.

MOUNTAINS EMBRACE

Serenity on the Lake's Edge

Two mountains joining over a calm lake, holding a small island. On this island sits a tiny house surrounded by trees growing on the mountainsides. By the lake, there's a small boat, adding to the peaceful view

Creating landscapes is truly captivating. The process of manipulating rocks, sand, and clay is exhilarating. It's all about translating feelings into the design, capturing the essence of trees and natural settings to reflect your emotions and evoke a genuine sense of reality.

Envisioning the isolated small island in the haor, it's a mesmerizing artistry of the mind. As you gaze upon the small, nestled house veiled by a towering tree, an ethereal thought sweeps in: 'What if I could slumber within this tiny abode for just one night?'

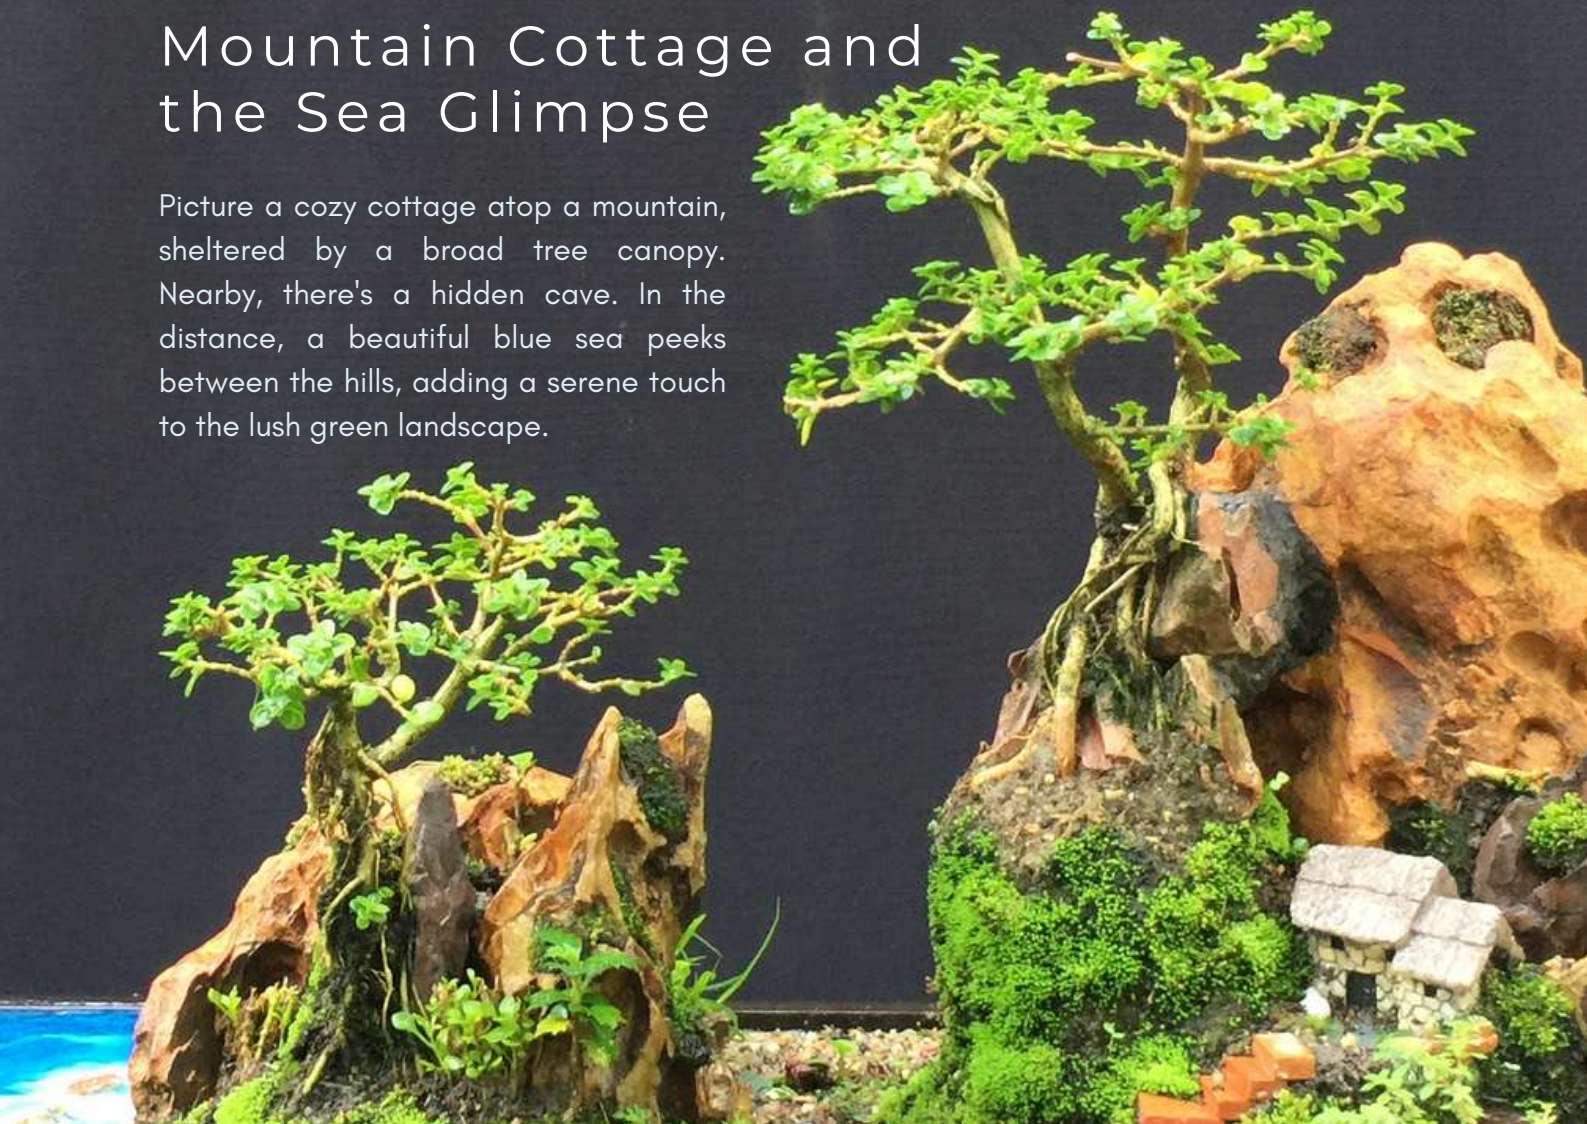

The river's erosion has swept away clusters of bamboo and trees, even a tiny shop in front of the schoolhouse. At the same time, the school itself stands precariously close to the riverbank, vulnerable to relentless erosion. On one side, lush greenery thrives, but on the other, the river's erosion leaves a stark contrast.

Enchanted Retreat: Mountain Cottage and the Sea Glimpse

Picture a cozy cottage atop a mountain, sheltered by a broad tree canopy. Nearby, there's a hidden cave. In the distance, a beautiful blue sea peeks between the hills, adding a serene touch to the lush green landscape.

Imagine a deep blue ocean enveloping sandy beaches nestled among the mountains. A majestic palace reigns atop one peak, its grandeur accessed by long stairs. The peaceful island exudes a serene beauty throughout

THE MASTERY OF
EPOXY RESIN
ARTISTRY

Using soil and glue, the land foundation is built. Houses take form from ice-cream sticks, matchsticks, and cardboard paper. Epoxy resin skillfully brings to life the water bodies, lending them a realistic and wet appearance.

The base is made of typical construction tiles. It's a large-scale epoxy resin art piece with a mix of white cement and red river sand. Adding acrylic color brings a stunning blue ocean to life, while dragon rocks form the mountains, and miniature bricks craft the staircases.
